

CDC Games Acquires PRC License For The No. 1 Online Game in Korea's Internet Cafes

Hong Kong, 25 August 2006—CDC Games, a wholly owned subsidiary of China.com Inc, a business unit of CDC Corporation (NASDAQ: CHINA), announced that it has acquired the PRC license to the No. 1 online game in Korea's Internet cafes, Special Force, from its developer Dragonfly.

Special Force was launched in Korea in July 2004 and has been the top ranked online game in Korea's Internet cafes for the past year with close to 12% market share in a recent survey by a leading games research company. It has over 11 million registered users and a professional league with 36 teams and the richest prize money for online gaming in Korea. It is a military First Person Shooter online game where the players can create their own elite military units with customized weapons and equipment selected from those used by special forces from around the world such as the SAS and Delta Force.

Following in the pioneering footsteps of Yulang, CDC's blockbuster online game in China, Special Force will be free to play with players paying for virtual merchandise. Special Force will leverage the nationwide server network developed by CDC Games to support Yulang's operations. The new game is expected to launch in Q4, 2006.

"Dragonfly is excited to be partnering with CDC Games, one of the most successful online game companies in China. Based on their outstanding track record we have very high hopes for this new game in China. We look forward to a long and successful partnership with them," said Mr. C. W. Park, Chief Executive Officer of Dragonfly.

"We are proud to bring one of Korea's most popular games to our users in China," said Dr. Xiaowei Chen, Chief Financial Officer of China.com Inc. "With the continuing success of Yulang and the enormous potential we see for Special Force, CDC Games is well positioned to continue to grow and maintain its position as a leader in online gaming in China."

- Ends -

F O R I M M E D I A T E R E L E A S E

About China.com Inc

China.com Inc. (stock code: 8006; website: www.inc.china.com), a leading online game, Mobile Value Added Services (MVAS), and Internet services company operating principally in China, and a 77%-owned subsidiary of CDC Corporation (formerly chinadotcom corporation) (NASDAQ: CHINA; website: www.cdccorporation.net), was listed on the GEM of the Stock Exchange of Hong Kong Limited on March 9, 2000. In December 2000, China.com Inc. was admitted as a constituent stock of the Hang Seng IT and IT Portfolio Indices.

Safe Harbor Statement

There is no assurance that the current growth of China.com Inc.'s business can be maintained. The statements in this news release, other than historical financial information, may contain forward-looking statements that involve risks and uncertainties that could cause actual results to differ from anticipated results.

For further information, please contact:

Ida Ho

China.com Inc.

Tel: (852) 2237 7181

Email: ida.ho@hk.china.com